

Default Question Block

Welcome to the Shaping Our Future event! The following pre-survey is designed to get your initial thoughts on the topics we will discuss. After you complete the survey, we will send you a packet of briefing materials to review in advance of the event, along with instructions on how to log in on May 1-2. Thank you - we're glad you are part of this important event!

What post-secondary institution do you attend?

Before we begin, we want to share some research details with you and obtain your consent to participate in this event.

INVITATION TO PARTICIPATE: Luke Terra and Alice Siu, researchers at Stanford University, are conducting a study on public policy issues. The purpose of the research is to better understand how young people form and change their views on important public policy questions through a process of guided discussion and analysis. They have identified a random sample of young people from across the country to invite to participate in a two-day, Deliberative Polling experiment called "Shaping Our Future" on May 1-2, 2021.

PURPOSE: The purpose of the study is to understand how the views of young people on public policy questions change as the result of a deliberative process including document review, expert interviews, and group discussions. The data gathered in this study will contribute to a larger, cross-national dataset of similar exercises to examine similarities and differences in the deliberative process by age, gender, culture, and national origin.

TIME INVOLVEMENT: Your participation will take approximately seven hours, including six hours total on May 1-2, 2021.

DESCRIPTION OF PROCEDURES: You will be asked to complete a pre-survey to capture your views on a range of public policy issues and political orientation, along with demographic questions so we can compare your answers to other young people. You will receive a briefing booklet to review in advance of the two-day event on May 1-2, 2021. The briefing materials will introduce you to a set of policy proposals you will discuss during the event. On May 1 and 2, you will be randomly assigned to a small group of 10-15 young people and guided through a structured discussion of the proposals. All participants will join a plenary session where a panel of experts will answer questions raised in the small group discussions. At the conclusion of the second day of deliberation, you will complete a post-survey.

RECORDING: With your permission, we would like to record audio and video during the Deliberative Polling event. The online platform automatically transcribes small group discussions. Audio files will be used to verify the accuracy of transcripts and will be stored in secure files at Stanford University. Audio files will be destroyed after analysis is complete. Video will be stored in secure files at Stanford University and may be used in presentations following the event to provide examples of democratic deliberation.

RISKS AND BENEFITS: The risks associated with this study are minimal. We will be discussing public policy issues. The benefits which may reasonably be expected to result from this study are a greater understanding of an important public policy question, and familiarity with the deliberative polling process. We cannot and do not guarantee or promise that you will receive any benefits from this study. If your participation is related to your enrollment in an academic course, your decision whether or not to participate in this study will not affect your grade.

ECONOMIC CONSIDERATIONS/INCENTIVES: Following your participation in the two-day event and the completion of the pre and post survey, you will receive $75 payment for your participation, provided as a gift card or other direct payment.

CONFIDENTIALITY: As a study participant, you will complete an interest form, a pre-survey, and a post-survey. During the event, you will participate in small group discussions, which will be transcribed. Although collected data may be made public or used for future research purposes, all survey and transcript data will be de-identified (meaning that your name will be replaced by a unique identifier). Identifiable information will be stored in a separate file from the data from the event and destroyed after the analysis is complete. We do this to ensure your responses remain confidential and so that you feel free to respond as freely as possible.

PUBLIC / FUTURE USE: Although collected data may be made public or used for future research purposes, your identity will always remain confidential.

PARTICIPANT'S RIGHTS: If you have read this form and have decided to participate in this project, please understand your participation is voluntary and you have the right to withdraw your consent or discontinue participation at any time for any reason. The alternative is not to participate. You have the right to refuse to answer particular questions. The results of this research study may be presented at scientific or professional meetings or published in scientific journals. You will not be identified in these presentations or publications.

Now, we’re going to ask you some questions about policies that are of concern to the public. Not everyone has thought much about these, but we do need to ask them. If we come to one you haven’t thought much about, just indicate ‘no opinion’, and move on to the next one.

Here are some proposals on the role of young people and the environment.

On a 0 to 10 scale, where 0 is strongly oppose, 10 is strongly favor and 5 is in the middle, how strongly would you oppose or support the following? If you don't have an opinion on a proposal, feel free to select "no opinion."
